Holmfirth Footpath 105 has pinned its political colours to its roadside signpost ahead of Thursday's local elections. For decades the Holme Valley has had 3 tory councillors. Two years ago we elected a labour councillor who was actually in the same century as the rest of us rather than a couple behind. Councillor Davies has undoubtedly had a positive effect on improving rights of way in the valley and getting the subject on the agenda in a way that hasn't happened here for donkey's years.

Maybe Footpath 105 has a point?
