To The Secretary of State

To whom it may concern

Our family is in full support of the proposed diversion to this footpath. We walk as a family , or sometimes I take our grandchildren along the walk on my own . The old route going up between two buildings and then high walls at either side is NOT SAFE as you meet the main road there is a blind bend to your right and drivers do tend to come up from the junction very fast as it is a de-restricted road, and to the left there are parked cars that people leave and then walk across the road to visit the Trigg point. The new route is well thought out , benches have been placed along the path. We have met walkers enjoying the views and families having picnics. We most certainly like the new approach to Wolfstones Road , as you come to the exit there's a big wide open space so you can see either way before you step out as we can see a lot further up and down the road which you can't with the old exit. Holding hands with children and making sure they're all safe once you turn into the road , I've noticed the grass verge is now clear of the large stones that were once there it makes it so much easier now for the kids to walk along the side of the wall. We approve of the diversion and it is a lot SAFER IN EVERY RESPECT.

We are enjoying using it!!

Yours sincerely
